

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR

December 29, 2014

Mr. Allan Jones
Chairman
International Energy Advisory Council

Message of Congratulations

Dear Mr. Allan Jones,

Warm greetings from the Seoul Metropolitan Government.
Congratulations on the launch of International Energy Advisory Council!

Climate change and a possible energy crisis are indeed the defining challenges of our time. As you are familiar, the city of Seoul has put into its utmost efforts, notably through the One Less Nuclear Power Plant (OLNPP) initiative, to shoulder its responsibility as a high energy-consuming megacity and to build a sustainable city. Now, Seoul is implementing the second phase of the OLNPP, building on its success with the first phase, where it achieved its target of cutting down on energy consumption by an amount equivalent to the output of one nuclear power plant.

Along the way, the Seoul International Energy Advisory Council has spared no efforts to offer advice on the initiative. Let me take this opportunity to thank the SIEAC again for the keen interest and support it has shown for Seoul's energy policy.

I would like to extend my heartfelt congratulations on the launch of the International Energy Advisory Council (IEAC) with a view to offering advice on energy issues faced by the wider world. It is very meaningful that the IEAC embodies the collective commitment of world-renowned energy experts to tackle climate change and achieve sustainable development by dealing with a variety of important issues including energy efficiency and distributed power generation. I look forward to the huge contributions that the IEAC will make in the years to come.

Last but not least, I would like to kindly ask for continued interest and advice of SIEAC on Seoul's energy policy, and to let the wider world know about it.

Sincerely,
